Development Authorities in India have played a very significant role in carrying about planned and organized growth. The basic premise of all the Development Authorities in India is the realization of the fact that there is distinction between Growth and Development and the latter has to be achieved through strategic use of the available resources. India has long been a sleeping giant and the Development Authorities in various cities made India wake up from its slumber. Development Authorities in India concentrate on special functions like Housing, Planning, and Restructuring and Urban Development
